

ATTORNEYS GETTING DETAILS
FOR SETTLEMENT SHAPED UP

Water Company And Borough Will Effect Compromise Soon.

THE FILTRATION PLANT

Understood That Company Will Begin Erection Immediately After Signing of Papers.

Attorneys D. M. McCloskey and Carl Gibson for the borough of Charleroi and Irwin and Gordon for the Charleroi Water company are at work now getting the details shaped up for the final settlement of the company and the borough. Soon after the recommendations of the "Underwriters' associations, for improvements to be made here to secure a reduction of penalties, was approved by the Water company, the water committee of council met with the attorneys of the borough and instructed them to go ahead and prepared the details for compromise. This will be effected times possible so that the Water at all times begin the erection of the plant which they promise. Details which have been worked out before there can be any hitch, and it is possible that there will be some hitch, but no doubt but that every detail will be satisfactorily arranged in the next few weeks. As soon as the attorneys can get matters in shape, papers will be presented to the borough and the water company for the erection of the filtration plant. Immediately afterward, it is understood, or as soon as it is practicable. There are quite a number of things to enter into the agreement. The principal one is that the water company is to install an up-to-date filtration plant, and a duplicate pump, while the borough grants an extension of time for the franchise.

COST OF AUDIT IS MORE THIS YEAR

Increase of $500—Auditors Finish And File Their Report.

The county auditors, J. K. Mitchell, Washington; W. I. Anderson, Union township and Clark R. Tilton, Robinson township, who commenced work on the books of the county on January 4 have finished their work and yesterday filed their report in the office of the probono-tary. This is the longest session of any auditing board in Washington county.

The cost of the audit will likely run over $1,200. The books in the commissioners' office show that J. E. Mitchell has drawn $300 for his services. C. R. Tilton has drawn $127.94, $108.44 being for mileage. W. J. Anderson has drawn no money. The cost of the audit for the year 1907 was $717.36 and is as follows: W. A. Kennedy, $245.85; R. P. Stevenson, $235.72; W. R. Denison, $235.76.

Several complaints were made and referred to different sources for adjustment. The milk ordinance, which has passed first reading in council, was considered, and some minor changes recommended. D. R. Hornell, who was recently elected a member of the board to fill a vacancy, was sworn into office. Twelve cases of measles and two cases of chickenpox were reported.

NATURE AS JOKER
FOOLS ENGINEERS
AT MONONGAHELA

Tree Moves And People Wonder What Is The Matter.

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM

Following an astounding though authentic statement by engineers of the Dravo Construction company, builders of the inter-county bridge at Monongahela, residents of that town would almost readily believe the river itself is all that prevents the opposite hills from slipping like an avalanche upon the town.

Engineers of the company have experienced great difficulty in finding a suitable approach for the bridge from the east side of the river. However this was thought to have been overcome all right until yesterday when measurements were again taken and it was found that a tree on a hillside opposite Monongahela had actually moved toward the river since the previous survey.

Regardless that such a condition may, to some, seem to pretend a dire calamity, the engineers account for the apparent freak in a most natural way. A layer of shale rock is covered by rather slimy clay so that the earth covering the hillside to even a great depth, slips downward. This means the engineers of the Dravo Construction company face a very serious problem in building the bridge and one that many require considerable time and expense of resolution. However they believe they will be able to successfully combat nature's little joke.

PRELIMINARY
ORGANIZATION IS EFFECTED

High School Alumni Association Formed at Meeting Night.

ANOTHER MEETING IN JUNE

A preliminary organization of the Charleroi High School Alumni Association was formed last night at a meeting at the Ninth street school building. There were not many present, but a lively interest was shown and it is thought that this attempt to form an association will be a success. Arrangements were made for a meeting to be held on June 20, at which time it is desired to have all the graduates to be present. These are more than a hundred in number the first class being in 1893. In 1894 there was no class and in 1895 there was none.

At the meeting last night, Roy Carson was appointed temporary chairman. Following this a committee was appointed consisting of Miss Elsie Crill, '04, Arthur K. Odert, '06, Miss Ruth Rice, '07, Bannister Roberts, '08, and Harold Smith, '09, to arrange for the meeting in June and issue postcards to the members of the various classes inviting them to be present. At this time the organization will be perfected, officers elected and all business done incident to the forming of such an association. The classes of 1904, 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1909 were represented at the meeting last night.

UNIONTOWN HERE TODAY

Imps Will Play a Series of Two Games with MacHales Cherubs.

The baseball game between Connellsville and Charleroi yesterday was postponed on account of wet grounds. The rain at 3 o'clock was too much, and put a stop to all thoughts of playing.

Uniontown is here to meet the Cherubs in two games, one today and another tomorrow. At their last appearance here the Uniontown bunch took two out of a series of three, but the Charleroi team has been strengthened and will make the Imps go some to take the present series.

MANY BEAUTIFUL TOASTS

The Charleroi Volunteer Fire Department last evening in their rooms in the borough building held a reception and banquet for Prof. W. D. Wright, the former secretary, who leaves soon for the West. About 40 members of the department were present. The toastmaster was Joseph Elliott and he fulfilled his duties in a most acceptable manner. There was not a member present who did not respond with a toast, the general trend of the remarks being of the regret which was felt over the severing of the pleasant ties which had existed between the members of the company and Prof. Wright. R. Dale Jolliffe, who was the only member of the old company present, told of the changes that had been made in reciting a brief history of the former department. The present company was organized in 1902.

A vote of thanks was unanimously rendered Prof. Wright for the efficient manner in which he has fulfilled his duties as secretary of the organization, and God speed was wished him in his trip to Kansas.

Crowd is Expected.

The formal opening of James Gelder's new Sanitary meat market will take place tomorrow, Saturday, May 29, at which time the people of Charleroi and vicinity are cordially invited to call and inspect the handsome new quarters of one of Charleroi's bustling young business men. The shop is fitted up in the most approved style having an electric Dayton cutting and slicing self-sharpening machine for dried beef, boiled ham and bacon, an electric coffee grinder, and three sets of computing scales between the creamery and the meat department.

Mr. Gelder has two large Goekler refrigerators, one for the creamery department an extra large one for the meat department, making a nice background by showing the products in the coolers. A gala day-tone is lent to the whole display by a tasty arrangement of Japanese lanterns and other decorations. A creamery and tea and coffee department will also be conducted.

BENEFIT WELL ATTENDED

Charleroi People Take Part in Affair at Monessen Opera House Last Evening.

A large crowd was in attendance at the first presentation of the play "America" by Charleroi and Monessen people at the Monessen Opera House last evening. The affair was given as a benefit for the Monessen General Hospital at North Charleroi, and a nice sum was realized. The play will be produced again this evening at the Monessen Opera House and it is thought that a large number of Charleroi people will attend.

Among the features last night at the play were specialties by Miss Helen Springer and Earl Nicolson, and Misses Elsie Furlong and Isabel Wilson.

New Lutheran Church A Model of Architectural Beauty.

DESCRIPTION OF EDIFICE

Is Thoroughly Fitted Up With The most Up-to-date Manner.

Just one year ago the Christ Lutheran congregation of Charleroi broke ground for their new stone church on the corner of Sixth street and Washington avenue. On August 30, 1908, the corner stone was laid with imposing ceremonies, and since that time the construction of what is considered the most beautiful and handsome church in this section was hurried to completion. On Sunday, the 30th inst, this church will be dedicated to sacred uses.

The structure is built of native blue stone, taken from the quarry just six squares from the site of the building. It is trimmed with the Indiana limestone secured from Bloomington, Ind. The church is Gothic in architecture, which is the principal style of buildings of this character. This Gothic style is carried out in detail throughout the entire building, even to the furniture, the chandeliers and decoration, which together with the windows, makes it a dream of beauty. The color scheme is restful and in perfect harmony with the whole interior, helping to make it one of the most inviting churches in the community.

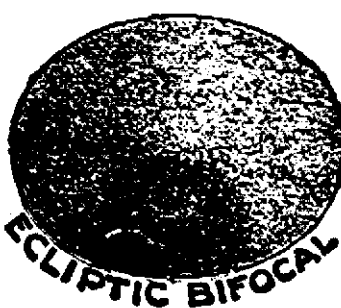

on Sixth street, being entered through a vestibule, to the right of which is a ladies' reception room. This vestibule is separated from the auditorium by a glass partition which gives a very pleasing effect. As you pass the vestibule into the auditorium, the eye looks directly down the large center aisle into the chancel, in the rear of which stands the altar. As though standing upon the altar, is a large stone cross window allegorically presenting the Holy Communion with the bust of the thorned-crowned Christ in the center. The altar railing stands between the pulpit and the lecturn, and the altar, the former being to the left and the latter the right of the cross. To the left of the pulpit is the baptismal font made and presented by the members. The choir, which is a part of the congregation, is to the right of the lecturn. The windows are especially exquisite, being furnished by a Pittsburgh firm. The large window on Sixth street contains nine life-sized figures, portraying the Ascension. The windows throughout the entire building are very fine in design, and with a different church emblem in each one, gives a distinctness and beauty which is very attractive.

The entrance to the Sunday school rooms are on Washington avenue. This is the most complete and up-to-date Sunday school quarter that is to be found in this section of the country. There are nine distinct class rooms, all of which open into the main room, and when so desired, the whole lower floor can be converted into one large audience room. There is also a thoroughly furnished kitchen on this floor which makes it possible for the ladies' Aid to furnish suppers with ease.

The church is heated with steam heat, and lighted with both electricity

Ambition is Lacking.

How very few public school pupils make an effort for a higher education is shown by the small size of the graduating classes of the High Schools which are just now in the limelight of publicity. Charleroi had twelve graduates from the high school and tonight Donora graduates a class of seven.

In the natural order of the school
course the High Schools should graduate from forty to fifty pupils each year. That is about the average number of pupils for each school room, and following along the evolution of the course, the grades should advance and graduate virtually intact.
As a matter of fact it is only those who desire a higher education for some of the professions who pass through the entire course. This is indicated by the graduating class at Donora tonight, where three of the girls graduates expect to enter the California Normal, one will go to college, and the two boy graduates will go to W. and J. college.

Many more could pass through the High Schools if they would, but they lack ambition, and are content to start out in life with the handicap of inferior training.

Electric Sparks

Occasionally a spring poet does get off something good, but such times are so infrequent, that an editor gets into the habit of rejecting the "stuff" without so much as a glance at it.

Woman and the Jewish Talmud.

The Jewish Talmud has these sentences about women: "A good wife is heaven's noblest gift. A housewife never allows herself to be disturbed from her work. Even while conversing she is busily spinning. An old, experienced woman in a household is an ornament to it like a pearl. He who lives in an unmarried state knows no joys, none of the blessings of home, and is without support. The man who stands at the deathbed of his wife feels like those who saw the temple of Jerusalem reduced to ashes, for the wife is the temple in which each man finds repose and quiet, where he rests after the labors of the day and where he can give expression to his feelings, joyful and mournful. God has given to woman more ability of judging correctly than man."

Avalanches.

There are avalanches of different kinds, but when the term "avalanche" is used it is generally supposed to apply to falls of great bodies of snow or ice, says Mr. Edward Whymper in the London Strand Magazine. One of the first occasions of this kind which attracted attention took place in 1820, upon Mont Blanc, and it is commonly called the Hamelet accident. Dr. Hamelet, a Russian, set out on Aug. 18 to go up Mont Blanc, accompanied by two Englishmen and eight guides. They had ascended to a height of more than 14,000 feet, with five guides in front, who were cutting or making steps,
when all at once the snow above them gave way, and the members of the party were carried down a thousand feet or more over the slopes up which they had toiled. Snow again broke away above and more or less covered them. Some of them struggled out, but three of the leading guides were hurled into a crevasse and buried under an immense mass of snow. The bodies of these men reappeared at the foot of the glacier thirty years afterward.

Two Bits of Wood.

Importance cannot be reduced to a matter of size. The success of a piece of work may depend on a tiny detail.
Such is the case in regard to that marvel of construction, the violin.
Rev. H. H. Haweis in his "My Musical Life" tells of the care and labor expended on two little pieces of wood which go to make up the perfect whole. The sound bar is a strip of pine wood running obliquely under the left foot of the bridge. A slight mistake in its position, looseness or inequality or roughness of finish will produce that hollow, teeth on edge growl called "wolf." It takes great training and a life of practical study to know how long and how thick the sound bar must be and exactly where to place it in each instrument. The sound post is a little pine prop, like a short bit of cedar pencil. It is the soul of the violin, and through it pours all vibrations. Days and weeks are spent in adjusting the tiny sound post.
Its position exhausts the patience of the maker and makes the joy or the misery of the player.

The Ruling Passion.

His clothes said he was a tramp,
but his brow was high and his manner grand. "Madam, may I request the favor of a pair of your husband's custoff trousers? These are somewhat passé." This, with a sweep of a tattered hat, brought results in the shape of a pair of hubby's oldest, which were just about two degrees better than those the tramp was wearing.
After a critical survey of his acquisition, instead of the polite words of thanks the good woman was waiting for, the tramp volunteered, with a deep, long drawn sigh of regret, "Madam, I see your husband discards from weakness."—Puck.

Mission of Pain.

Although looked upon as an evil, pain is klad. It tells that the laws of nature have been violated and warns as to correct the cause. If it were not for pain we would go on doing things that would destroy us. Pain is a warning that something is wrong, and instead of trying to hush the pain with some drug we should seek to remove the cause.

In a Different Class.

gone into society. Has she become a clubwoman yet?"
"Indeed an' she has not got into that class. She still uses a shtroon, sor."—

No Other Candidate for Recorder So Well Equipped as Alex. D. Young

ALEX. D. YOUNG

Young, candidate for the Republican nomination for Recorder of county, is too well known to need formal introduction. His long Recorder's office as deputy has brought him into close touch with the uniformly courteous treatment accorded patrons of the office and the term of service has made him many substantial friends who will support him in the contest to be settled at the June primary.

Qualifications no other candidate is so well equipped. Not only is he a Washington county so well understands how to conduct the office and there is no more deserving candidate. While at no time has Mr. Young been identified with factional politics, he has maintained his majority been a strict adherent to the principles of his choice.

As deputy recorder, established by many years of faithful record for party regularity Mr. Young solicits the support of the party Republicans.

Baltimore, Md. — "For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all zone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. ## PERFECT FLIERS.

Eagles, Vultures and Similar Birds Are In This Class.

It is a fact that those ingenious and daring minds that devote themselves to the solution of the problem of aviation have given no small part of their preliminary study to considering the manner of flight of birds.

A strange result of this investigation is the conclusion, now generally indorsed, that, as a whole, the bird world is not to be regarded as perfect in its attainment of flight. For instance, it is contended by the best authorities that all birds obliged continually to flap their wings—and in this category may be mentioned sparrows, finches, thrushes, crows, etc.—are still in an imperfect stage of advancement.

In the next class, as being a degree advanced, are put such birds as pigeons, swallows, etc., which are able to dart ahead for a space after they have gained a good start by the vigorous flapping of their pinions.

In the third class the birds that may be said to be perfect fliers are the eagles, vultures, albatrosses and similar big birds possessing the ability to rise and fall and sway and soar in the air indefinitely without a perceptible movement of their wings. It is, of course, known to every person of an observant turn that these big fowl are able to soar into the air gradually until at last they disappear from the eye of the watcher, it being almost impossible to detect any movement beyond a slight occasional motion of the tail.—New York Tribune.

A QUICK CHANGE.

From the Desire For Comfort to the Craze For Speed.

Mr. Newcar (about to start on his first trip in his recently purchased motor car, to his chauffeur)—Now, William, I want it thoroughly understood I will not have fast driving. Always keep well under the legal limit—not as close to it as you can. Ten miles an hour is fast enough for me. What I want is comfort, not excitement. Do you understand?

Three days later. "Er—er—William, I must be back to the house by 7 o'clock. This road seems very straight and wide. Don't you think you might go just a little faster without danger?"

Two days later. "William, this dust is very unpleasant. If you could pass that car ahead—it seems to be going rather slowly."

Next day. "Put on a little more speed, William. There's no use in being a crank. This road is too good to lose the chance."

A week later. "Open her up, William! There are no police within five miles. I'll bet, and if there are who cares? I'm out for fun! Let her zip! Let her zip! This is no steam roller! Let's have some speed!"—Life.

Monkey and Goat.

Monkeys are more renowned for mischief than for kindness, but even monkeys can be benevolent. M. Mouton records the doings of one in Guadeloupe that surely seemed to merit that reputation. This monkey had a friend in a goat that went daily to the pasture. Every night the monkey would pick out the thorns and thistles, sometimes to the number of 2,000 or 3,000, from the goat's fleece, in order that the animal might lie down in peace. On coming in from the pasture the goat regularly went in search of his light handed friend and submitted himself to the operation. Strange to say, the tricky instincts of the monkey reassured themselves after the pricks were removed. He would tease the poor goat unmercifully, plucking his beard, poking him in the eyes and pulling out his hairs. The goat bore it all with patience, perhaps regarding it as only a fair price to be paid for the removal of the thorns.—London Standard.

His Appeal

J. C. SUTHERLAND

Aggressiveness is the keynote of American life today. We feel that no greater tribute can be paid us than to be known as "men who do things."

The public loves an aggressive candidate—one who relies upon himself, and conducts a good fight by fair and honorable means.

"Chester" Sutherland is carrying his contest for the nomination for Recorder of Deeds to the very doorsteps of the voters. Born and reared upon a Washington County farm, by training and experience he has become familiar with the wants and needs of the people. He is the representative of the workers, and his candidacy is a declaration of his belief that every American citizen may justly aspire to public office.

His business record is one of hard and consistent toil, and merited success. His political record is that of a staunch Republican, whose conscience has not been in the keeping of any faction.

He appeals to all alike—the junior voters and those of many elections. He is truly the candidate of both and his success is important to every thoughtful and ambitious man.

In Short, He is the Aggressive Candidate of Aggressive Men

IN ANNOUNCING my

candidacy for the nomination of County Recorder.

I do so by stating that I have never been favored, either with an elective or an appointed position in this county, and I have never given support, nor encouragement in any campaign to any other than candidates of the Republican Party, from whose hosts I am now seeking the honorable position above named. I have long been a resident of the Monongahela Valley, and for more than one hundred and twenty years my ancestors have been taxpayers and residents of that section of the county.

While no new issues or questions are likely to be advanced in the coming campaign other than fitness and capability of the applicants, I wish to say that I stand as I have always done, for the broad principles of Republicanism and will always be ready to champion every policy of reform involving a higher standard of politics.

On one or two occasions I have permitted my name to be withdrawn from political contests for the sake of the party harmony, but after being active in aiding others for almost a score of years in reaching the goal of their ambitions, I am now presenting myself for the first time as a candidate for the office of County Recorder, for which primaries will be held June 5th, 1909.

WHEN RAIN IS COMING.

Weather Changes Foretold by Birds, Frogs and Insects.

Those who live by the coast do not want a better weather sign than the sea gulls, which in the various winds that will bring the rain collect in big flocks and gather in the fields or circle high over the land, wheeling and screaming uneasily. They will not come in on a false alarm, and none need fear they will make a mistake.

As long as frogs remain yellow in color nothing but fine weather may be expected. Should, however, their coats begin to assume a brown hue it is a sign that bad weather will shortly arrive. A good frog barometer may be made by keeping two of them in a large glass bowl filled with water and furnished with small wooden ladders. As long as the frogs keep at the bottom of the vessel sunny days will continue, but if they climb up to the top of the ladder there is a storm coming.

A spider spinning its web is a sign of fine days. If in the morning a day's excursion may be taken without fear of summer costumes becoming spoiled by the wet, and if in the evening then at least the whole of the night and the following morning will be fine.

If it is raining and the owl screeches a change for the better in the weather will shortly ensue, but should the peacock screech bad weather is to come or continue.

Snails are also valuable weather prophets. As long as they are to be seen jogging along in the orthodox manner fine weather may be confidently looked forward to. If there is rain in the atmosphere the snails may be seen to seek shelter up the stems of trees and shrubs, under leaves and, in fact, anywhere where they can be safely out of the wet. Only when all immediate danger of a recurrence of rain is over will they emerge again.

GROWING THE AZALEA.

Varieties of This Beautiful Plant Found in Many Countries.

The hardy azaleas, cultivated in English gardens and now receiving the attention of cultivators both in Europe and this country, originated from the Mediterranean Azalea pontica, the North American and the Chinese and Japanese azaleas. These have been much intercrossed, and the respective types are now connected by so many intermediate forms that it is not easy to classify them under their respective species.

They were first popularly known as American azaleas and subsequently, after they had received much attention in Belgium, became known as Ghent azaleas. Now they are being cultivated so largely in Japan that they are frequently termed Japanese azaleas. A collective term for them is hardy hybrid azaleas, which is in the form of a deciduous shrub with brilliant yellow flowers. You often read of this beautiful flower in descriptions of Turkey.

Our native azalea, with its wealth of bloom, varying in tint from white to bluish pink, rose, red and scarlet, is suggestive both in shape and color and also in fragrance of the honeysuckle, under which name, with the prefix wild, it is commonly known.

While the wild azaleas are not as strikingly brilliant as the ones the florists offer us, they possess a fragrance and delicacy that we find entirely lacking in the cultivated ones.

As the white honeysuckle another American species (Azalea viscosa) is familiarly known in its native home, where it is chiefly found in swamps near the coast in the northern and eastern states. This materially differs from the other varieties of native azaleas in that it produces its flowers after the leaves have fully expanded, and, though the plant is beautiful, it does not present such a mass of coloring as the other varieties. The shades have not so wide a range, being confined to white or yellow with a rosy tinge, but the flowers are borne in large tufts and are very fragrant.

Some of the Japanese azaleas have been cultivated to a great extent, and so of these varieties at the present time excel all others in size of the individual flowers; but, as is the case with all the cultivated varieties, they are entirely lacking in fragrance. However, they are extremely handsome and are imported by the many thousands for the Easter season.

When one purchases an azalea from the florist it is usually in the height of its beauty, being a mass of bloom. Now, the thing desired is to keep it in this condition as long as possible. In order to do this keep the plant in as cool a place as possible and well watered.

A Thought For Today.

So few of us are content with the little pleasures. If we were there would be much more happiness in the world and far less discontent. But we scorn the little things which might interest and amuse us and fret because we can't have the big ones.

Little pleasures are scarcely worth telling our friends about. Perhaps that is why we think so little of them.

A New Invention.

There is a new invention in the house furnishing department which notches the top edges of the two grape fruit shells when the half shells are to be used for receptacles of salad or jelly. A knife fixed in the bottom of a shallow wooden trough does the work as the fruit rolls over it. The price is 40 cents.

A MEDAL FROM CONGRESS.

Awarded to Miss Mary McCann, the Girl Heroine of the Slocum Disaster.

Five years ago in June a little, pale faced, fourteen-year-old girl was sitting weakly in a big chair on the veranda of a cottage on North Brother Island, near New York city.

She was just recovering from an attack of scarlet fever. Her parents in New York had sent her over to the island to have the sea breeze help her recover her strength.

The child sat looking out over the blue waters and watching a big excursion boat. There were children on board, hundreds of them. She could see their white dresses, bright and pretty in the sunlight. They waved their white handkerchiefs toward the shore. The girl on the shore could make out even the name of the boat—General Slocum.

But even as she was spelling out the name a fearful thing happened. Smoke and fire sprang up from the bow and stern of the boat at once, it seemed—great rolling clouds of smoke, black and terrible. The girl on shore could hear the cries of the children.

The steamboat turned toward shore, grated on the sand, stopped. The cries were much louder now. People began to gather at the bank. A few had the coolness to get boats and go to the rescue. More just run foolishly up and down the beach, crying and wringing their hands.

The little invalid on the veranda—no, she wasn't on the veranda. Where had she gone? Why, there she was halfway down the beach, running, her blankets and pillows forgotten, her little white face flushed now from the exertion.

The doctor's orders were that the child should remain absolutely quiet. He was sure they would be obeyed, for she was too weak to do anything else, he thought.

And here she was running furiously to the water's edge. Now she was in the water—wading, tugging, paddling toward the boat which lay burning, helpless and stranded on the sand.

One of the many children who had leaped or been pushed from the deck of the boat drifted by close to the little invalid girl. The next minute she was being dragged ashore, and the invalid was back braving the waters again, rescuing another child.

Nine times the little sick girl plunged into the water on her rescue mission. Each time she risked her own life among those twisting, hurrying currents and from the strangling grips of the half drowned children she was trying to save.

But she succeeded, and in nine homes in Greater New York that night fathers and mothers with choking voices prayed for the unknown little sick girl who had saved their own darling from death.

The next day the whole city was ringing with the story, and lessons were told and sung and preached about the name of Mary McCann.

For this was the name of the brave little sick girl who had forgotten her own troubles and weakness in the face of others' peril—just plain, unpretending Mary McCann.

This was five years ago, and Mary McCann is a grownup girl now. She is a student at the Florence Crittenden training school at Washington.

The United States house of representatives has just discovered that Mary McCann is a heroine. It has voted her a silver medal for bravery, and Speaker Cannon presented it himself to her recently, and his voice trembled as he did it. Thinking of her bravery, he bent over and kissed the girl and uttered a little blessing on her.

When a man is buying his summer footwear he likes to have the game as well as the name. In many cases he doesn't—simply because most shoe stores show the same old oxfords made up in the same old way. Our oxfords are classy and you might just as well have the new and fashionable effects as some old hand-me-down

Gift to a Hostess.
One dainty woman gave to another dainty woman, whose guest she had been, a gift for her linen closet. It consisted of a number of lavender filled pads to lay in among the linens. They were generous in size, made of lavender Japanese crepe, printed with a rambling vine, probably wistaria. The inside was white cotton wadding, with dried lavender flowers between the layers, and there was a last bit of prettiness added in the shape of tufts of lavender ribbon.

The gift is a very appropriate one from the guest, who has not known her hostess very well and who therefore might not venture on a personal gift.

Carmen Sylva on Woman's Rights.
Mrs. Walker Fearn is lecturing in this country for the blind, and incidentally she is telling what she knows about the good queen of Roumania. Carmen Sylva. The queen is not a suffragist, and her opinions upon the subject were quoted as follows: "Women's rights?—We have the right to suffer, to be patient, to work, to help, to be virtuous and to make use so. What more do we want?"

Use of Charcoal.
A small dish of charcoal kept in the meat larder will keep the articles sweet and wholesome. Charcoal is a great disinfectant. A dish of charcoal kept in the icebox will also keep it smelling sweet and free from odors.

BATHING HINTS.

Advice to Those Who Slight Important Details.

Have you ever used bath bags? No? Well, they are cheap, quickly made, and, once tried, you will never be without them. To make them, cut pieces of cheesecloth 9 by 15 inches and run these up to form bags. Fill each one with the following mixture: A gill of bran, a gill of oatmeal, a gill of cornmeal, a gill of pulverized orrisroot, a saltspoonful of ground cloves, the same of powdered borax and a gill of shaved toilet soap. The bag should not be stuffed full, but the contents should be loose. Allow the bag to soak in the bath water a few minutes, so its fragrance will be imparted. One of these little bags will last two months and must be hung up to dry each time after using. Should you enjoy a stronger perfume it is obtained by adding half an ounce of lavender flowers to the bag or by pouring a little lavender or violet water in the tub or basin in connection with this. The skin feels delightful if gone over with a bath brush. It seems to start the circulation as nothing else will. Then sponge off with the bath bag. Twice a week is sufficiently often for this perfumed bath, and upon retiring is decidedly the best time. Don't take very hot baths, and don't be foolish enough to take a "cold dip" in the mornings unless ordered by the family physician. Let the water be as near the temperature of the body as possible. Don't use the old fashioned sponge for bathing. It is decidedly obnoxious and insanitary. Don't bathe directly after eating—not for half an hour at least. Don't ever take a bath in a cold room. Don't take a cold bath when tired, but a warm one will rest and refresh you greatly.

Don't wash the face too frequently when traveling. Cold cream removes dirt better than hard water, and don't forget the alcohol bottle; also cheesecloth wash cloths, which can be used and then thrown away.

Don't attempt to remove dirt and dust from the face with cold water, and don't wash the face and hands with hard water if you can get soft. A small quantity of powdered borax makes the hardest water soft and agreeable. Don't wash the face with cold water when warm from exertion or when overheated. Don't remain long in a bath, but don't neglect a daily one of some sort. Don't dress immediately after it, and, above all, don't neglect the "sun bath" as well as the one of fresh air.

Don't think you are getting rid of wrinkles by filling them with powder, but before retiring bathe the face with hot water, so hot it has to be sopped, then with very cold water, and pat it

dry with a towel. Don't rub it. Pat it dry, patting, paying attention to the creases, the average woman will realize that cleanliness does not mean next to godliness. Don't worry if you want to look youthful. Fears about wrinkles and anxieties like that are that nothing will obliterate. Retire as early as you can, with no thoughts of tomorrow. Remember that sufficient unto the day is the good thereof (not evil). Bathe yourself freely with clean, pure, uplifting thoughts, and face powder, as well as all other cosmetics will find small sales if depending upon you for support.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Grass stains may be removed by saturating in paradin before washing.

To remove paint from linens rub the cloth with turpentine, then clean with French chalk dampened with alcohol.

Table linen should be dampened thoroughly and ironed until dry. It will then have enough gloss and stiffness to suit the most fastidious.

Furniture polish—two ounces linseed oil, two ounces alcohol, four drops aniline, four drops wintergreen. Put on and rub with a flannel cloth.

To take mildew from linen rub the spot with soap; scrape chalk over it and rub it well; lay it on the grass in the sun; as it dries wet it a little. It will come out with two applications.

To clean furniture, if rough, rub it with powdered pumice. If simply dirty, rub with diluted vinegar, which will cut grease and remove dirt. Then polish with some good furniture polish.

Violets after they have been worn will come out fresh and almost as good as new by clipping the stems without cutting the bouquet apart and putting the flowers into a deep glass of water, covering the heads with waxed paper and setting them in the refrigerator.

Muslin dresses of delicate colors should not be washed with soap. The best fluid to wash them in is rice water, made by boiling one pound of rice in one gallon of water. Reserve a quart of the water for starching; then wash the dress in the remainder. Rinse in clear or slightly blue water; then starch the dress in the remaining quantity of rice water and iron quickly.

Potatoes à la Princesse.
To one pint of mashed potatoes add one tablespoonful melted butter and one egg well beaten. Cut the potatoes into strips two inches long, one inch wide and half an inch thick. Dip the strips first into the melted butter, then into the egg and lay them with a knife on lightly buttered tin pans. Cook in hot oven for ten minutes and serve.

Woman's World

LADY ARTHUR GROSVENOR.

A Titled Englishwoman Who Plays Gypsy During the Summer Months.

In these days of rapid travel by motor and electric traction there is something refreshingly novel about the adventures of a titled Englishwoman—Lady Arthur Grosvenor's method of holiday making by caravan. The illustration shows this lady on one of her expeditions, accompanied by a friend and her favorite dogs. While out on these journeys Lady Arthur Grosvenor does all her own cooking over a regular campfire. She makes it a rule to rise at 5 every morning. Breakfast is ready "in the open" by 6, and a little later the wagon is on the move for the day's journey, covering usually about fifteen miles. Now and then some of Lady Arthur Grosvenor's society friends accompany her for a day or two; but, as a rule, the life proves too strenuous for them. Lord Arthur Grosvenor frequently goes along with his wife on these strange tours, but he is not so fond of the life as Lady Arthur Grosvenor herself. In her own social circle she has become known by the nickname of Sarah Lee.

Lady Arthur Grosvenor's camping out life has given rise to a fad among the upper ten in England. A month or two out of the year many of them attempt to practice the "simple life" by camping out on the laws of their country mansions, walking barefooted on the grass and limiting themselves to farinaceous diet. There are not many, however, who have the hardihood to go in for the "real thing" to the extent indulged in by Lady Arthur Grosvenor.

These gypsy adventures have made her the talk of England for some little time, and quite a number of her society friends cut her because of her strange whim. She goes all over England, however, and seldom takes the trouble to explain her identity. On one or two occasions she found it necessary to extricate herself from an embarrassing position by letting it be known that she was a titled lady simply enjoying an outing. As a rule, English farmers are not at all partial to menads of the tramp persuasion, as Lady Grosvenor often found to her great inconvenience. Gypsy wagons are not permitted to camp by the roadside, nor can they occupy a field or a meadow without the consent of the landlord. Lady Arthur Grosvenor on several occasions found great difficulty in obtaining the necessary permission and was often moved on by the police from place to place. Now and again, when arriving late at night at some village, her van has been surrounded and somewhat unceremoniously moved on before her ladyship could explain her identity.

Gypsies have an unenviable reputation for pilfering and wherever they go are looked upon with great suspicion. However, despite all the drawbacks, Lady Arthur Grosvenor has stuck to gypsying for several months out of each year and is said to have become quite proficient in the art of buying and selling. She often carries a stock of household necessities, such as brooms, mats and wickware, and enjoys the experience of going into the farmers' cottages and disposing of her wares.

Warns Against Votes For Women.

A scientific warning against all this suffrage business has been spoken by Dr. Max G. Schlapp, professor in the Cornell University Medical school. The professor addressed the women members of a New York club and made clear his opinion that women can't vote and maintain the birth rate. His views seem sufficient to give every suffragette sober reflection. "Women are becoming more and more active," he says. "They seem about to assume the suffrage. But the sex already is overburdened. The curves on statistical tables show a tremendous decrease in the birth rate since 1870. Other curves show an increase in insanity and nervous diseases. The lesson is that life processes have been disturbed and that an acute pathological condition exists. Statisticians contend that the mother love, the love of offspring, is diminishing with the greater functional activity. Woman is spending too much energy by adding to her functional burdens, robbing herself of her formative powers." Whatever the aggressive leaders in the fight for equal rights may say about it, there can be no doubt Dr. Schlapp has presented a new aspect of this growing suffragette problem.

For a Summer Veranda.

The girl who wishes to render the verandas of the summer cottage attractive should take time by the forelock, and make up an assortment of pillow covers. One of the most serviceable tops is of a new material which closely resembles leather and comes in red, blue, green and leather shades made up plainly and fringed with imitation leather fringe.

Burlap covers are embroidered with flower, foliage and bird designs or with fringe made by fraying the edges of the face and back of the pillow top.

Lingerie pillows are of muslin all over embroidery, of batiste banded and frilled with embroidery and of dotted and sprayed swiss. Any of the flowered lawns are pretty if finished with wide ruffles, and so are the Scotch gingham striped in two tones of one color. Some of them have a broken tartan plaid border that makes an effective ruffle. Scotch madras in two tone or solid colors furnishes a serviceable and smart looking pillow top, and there are most attractive plain French linens in such shades as wistaria, catawba, champagne, van dyke brown and old rose.

Letting scrim is an excellent material for a porch pillow cover and is charming when decorated with Dalmatian embroidery in oriental color combinations with embroidery silk. Cream colored scrim is used without a pattern, as is also the work.

For the Doeblinger work, done on colored monks' cloth, the eight fold German town yarn is used to develop art nouveau or oriental patterns.

After Signing of Papers.

Attorneys D. M. McCloskey and Carl Gisor for the borough of Charleroi and Ira and Gordon for the Charleroi water company are at work now getting the details shaped up for the final settlement of the company and the borough. Soon after the recommendations of the Underwriters' associations, for improvements to be made here to secure a reduction of penalties, was approved by the water company, the water committee of council met with the attorneys of the borough and instructed them to go and prepare the details for compromise. This will be effected through the water company. The water at all may begin the erection of the filtration plant which they promise to have details and have before the end of the month, and it is possible that the water company will be present to the water company for the erection of the filtration plant, and the water company for the erection of the filtration plant, and the water company for the erection of the filtration plant.

There are quite a number of things to enter into the agreement. The principal one is that the water company is to install an up-to-date filtration plant, and a duplicate pump, while the borough grants an extension of time for the franchise.

NATURE AS JOKER
FOOLS ENGINEERS

AT MONONGAHELA

Tree Moves And People
Wonder What Is The Matter.

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM

Following an extraordinary thought and statement by engineers of the Dravo Construction company, holders of the water company bridge at Monongahela, residents of that town would almost readily believe the river itself is all that prevents the opposite hills from slipping like an avalanche upon the town.

Engineers of the company have experienced great difficulty in finding a safe approach for the bridge from the east side of the river. However this was thought to have been overcome all right until yesterday when measurements were again taken and it was found that a tree on a hillside opposite Monongahela had actually moved toward the river since the previous survey.

Regardless that such a condition may, to some, seem to pretend a dire calamity, the engineers account for the apparent freak in a most natural way. A layer of shale rock is covered by rather slimy clay so that the earth covering the hillside to even a great depth, slips downward.

This means the engineers of the Dravo Construction company face a very serious problem in building the bridge and one that many require considerable time and expense of resolution. However they believe they will be able to successfully combat nature's little joke.

ANOTHER MEETING IN JUNE

A preliminary organization of the Charleroi High School Alumni Association was formed last night at a meeting at the Ninth street school building. There were not many present, but a lively interest was shown and it is thought that this attempt to form an association will be a success. Arrangements were made for a meeting to be held on June 20, at which time it is desired to have all the graduates to be present. These are more than a hundred in number the first class being in 1893. In 1894 there was no class and in 1895 there was none.

At the meeting last night, Roy Carson was appointed temporary chairman. Following this a committee was appointed consisting of Miss Elsie C. H. 44, Arthur K. Odert, 46, Miss Ruth Rice, 9, Bannister Roberts, 10, and Harold Smith 19, to arrange for the meeting in June and issue postcards to the members of the various classes inviting them to be present. At this time the organization will be perfected and the business done. The classes of 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898 and 1899 were represented at the meeting last night.

MANY BEAUTIFUL TOASTS

The Charleroi Volunteer Fire Department last evening in their rooms in the borough building held a reception and banquet for Prof. W. D. Wright, the former secretary, who leaves soon for the West. About 40 members of the department were present. The toastmaster was Joseph Elliott and he fulfilled his duties in a most acceptable manner. There was not a member present who did not respond with a toast, the general trend of the remarks being of the regret which was felt over the severing of the pleasant ties which had existed between the members of the company and Prof. Wright. R. Dale John, who was the only member of the old company present, told of the changes that had been made in reciting a brief history of the former department. The present company was organized in 1902.

A vote of thanks was unanimously rendered Prof. Wright for the efficient manner in which he has fulfilled his duties as secretary of the organization, and God speed was wished him in his trip to Kansas.

Mr. Gelder has two large Goekler refrigerators, one for the creamery department and an extra large one for the meat department, making a nice background by showing the products in the coolers. A gala day-tone is lent to the whole display by a tasty arrangement of Japanese lanterns and other decorations. A creamery and tea and coffee department will also be conducted.

New Lutheran Church A Model of Architectural Beauty.

DESCRIPTION OF EDIFICE

is thoroughly fitted up with
The most up-to-date Manner.

Just one year ago the Christ Lutheran congregation of Charleroi erected a new stone church on the corner of Sixth street and Washington avenue. On August 30, 1908, the corner stone was laid with imposing ceremonies, and since that time the construction of what is considered the most beautiful and handsome church in this section was hurried to completion. On Sunday, the 20th inst., this church will be dedicated to sacred uses.

The structure is built of native blue stone, taken from the quarry just six squares from the site of the building. It is trimmed with the Indiana limestone secured from Bloomington, Ind. The church is Gothic in architecture, which is the principal style of buildings of this character. This Gothic style is carried out in detail throughout the entire building, even to the furniture, the chandeliers and decorations which together with the windows, makes it a dream of beauty. The color scheme is tasteful and in perfect harmony with the whole interior, helping to make it one of the most inviting churches in this community.

The main entrance to the church is on Sixth street, being entered through a vestibule, to the right of which is a ladies' reception room. This vestibule is separated from the auditorium by a glass partition which gives a very pleasing effect. As you pass the vestibule into the auditorium, the eye looks directly down the large center aisle into the chancel, in the rear of which stands the altar. As though standing upon the altar, is a large stone cross window allegorically presenting the Holy Communion with the bust of the thorned-crowned Christ in the center. The altar railing stands between the pulpit and the lectern, and the altar, the former being to the left and the latter to the right of the cross. To the left of the pulpit is the baptismal font made and presented by the members. The choir, which is a part of the congregation, is to the right of the lectern. The windows are especially exquisite, being furnished by a Pittsburgh firm. The large window on Sixth street contains nine life-sized figures, portraying the Ascension. The windows throughout the entire building are very fine in design, and with a different church emblem in each one, gives a distinctness and beauty which is very attractive.

The entrance to the Sunday school rooms are on Washington avenue. This is the most complete and up-to-date Sunday school quarter that is to be found in this section of the country. There are nine distinct class rooms, all of which open into the main room, and when so desired, the whole lower floor can be converted into one large audience room. There is also a thoroughly furnished kitchen on this floor which makes it possible for the ladies' Aid to furnish suppers with ease.

Ambition is Lacking.

How very few public school pupils make an effort for a higher education is shown by the small size of the graduating classes of the High Schools which are just now in the limelight of publicity. Charleroi had twelve graduates from the high school and tonight Donora graduates a class of seven.

In the natural order of the school course the High Schools should graduate from forty to fifty pupils each year. That is about the average number of pupils for each school room, and following along the evolution of the course, the grades should advance and graduate virtually intact. As a matter of fact it is only these who desire a higher education for some of the professions who pass through the entire course. This is indicated by the graduating class at Donora tonight, where three of the girls graduates expect to enter the California Normal, one will go to college, and the two boy graduates will go to W. and J. college.

Many more could pass through the High Schools if they would, but they lack ambition, and are content to start out in life with the handicap of inferior training.

Electric Sparks

Occasionally a spring poet does get off something good, but such times are so infrequent, that an editor gets into the habit of rejecting the "stuff" without so much as a glance at it.

Since T. R. Roosevelt went to Africa, our Annanias club has not seemed to grow smaller, although he can't give it quite the attention he would if he were in America.

Woman and the Jewish Talmud.

The Jewish Talmud has these sentences about women: "A good wife is heaven's noblest gift. A housewife never allows herself to be disturbed from her work. Even while conversing she is busily spinning. An old, experienced woman in a household is an ornament to it like a pearl. He who lives in an unmarried state knows no joys, none of the blessings of home, and is without support. The man who stands at the deathbed of his wife feels like those who saw the temple of Jerusalem reduced to ashes, for the wife is the temple in which each man finds repose and quiet, where he rests after the labors of the day and where he can give expression to his feelings, joyful and mournful. God has given to woman more ability of judging correctly than man."

Avalanches.
There are avalanches of different kinds, but when the term "avalanche" is used it is generally supposed to apply to falls of great bodies of snow or ice. Says Mr. Edward Whymper in the London Strand Magazine. One of the first occasions of this kind which attracted attention took place in 1830, upon Mont Blanc, and it is commonly called the Hannel accident. Dr. Hannel, a Russian, set out on Aug. 15 to go up Mont Blanc, accompanied by two Englishmen and eight guides. They had ascended to a height of more than 14,000 feet, with five guides in front, who were cutting or making steps, when all at once the snow above them gave way, and the members of the party were carried down a thousand feet or more over the slopes up which they had toiled. Snow again broke away above and more or less covered them. Some of them struggled out, but three of the leading guides were hurled into a crevasse and buried under an immense mass of snow. The bodies of these men reappeared at the foot of the glacier thirty years afterward.

Two Bits of Wood.

Importance cannot be reduced to a matter of size. The success of a piece of work may depend on a tiny detail. Such is the case in regard to that marvel of construction, the violin. Rev. H. H. Hawes in his "My Musical Life" tells of the care and labor expended on two little pieces of wood which go to make up the perfect whole. The sound bar is a strip of pine wood running obliquely under the left foot of the bridge. A slight mistake in its position, looseness or inequality or roughness of finish will produce that hollow, teeth on edge growl called "wolf." It takes great cunning and a life of practical study to know how long and how thick the sound bar must be and exactly where to place it in each instrument. The sound post is a little pine prop, like a short bit of cedar pencil. It is the soul of the violin, and through it pours all vibrations. Days and weeks are spent in adjusting the tiny sound post. Its position exhausts the patience of the maker and makes the joy or the misery of the player.

The Ruling Passion.

His clothes said he was a tramp, but his brow was high and his manner grand. "Madam, may I request the favor of a pair of your husband's castoff trousers? These are somewhat passe." This, with a sweep of a tattered hat, brought results in the shape of a pair of hubby's oldest, which were just about two degrees better than those the tramp was wearing. After a critical survey of his acquisition, instead of the polite words of thanks the good woman was waiting for, the tramp volunteered, with a deep, long drawn sigh of regret, "Madam, I see your husband discards from weakness."—Puck.

Mission of Pain.

Although looked upon as an evil, pain is kind. It tells that the laws of nature have been violated and warns us to correct the cause. If it were not for pain we would go on doing things that would destroy us. Pain is a warning that something is wrong, and instead of trying to hush the pain with some drug we should seek to remove the cause.

WHEN RAIN IS COMING.

Weather Changes Foretold by Birds, Frogs and Insects.

Those who live by the coast do not want a better weather sign than the sea gulls, which in the various winds that will bring the rain collect in big flocks and gather in the fields or circle high over the land, wheeling and screaming uneasily. They will not come in on a false alarm, and none need fear they will make a mistake.

As long as frogs remain yellow in color nothing but fine weather may be expected. Should, however, their coats begin to assume a brown hue it is a sign that bad weather will shortly arrive. A good frog barometer may be made by keeping two of them in a large glass bowl filled with water and furnished with small wooden ladders. As long as the frogs keep at the bottom of the vessel sunny days will continue, but if they climb up to the top of the ladder there is a storm coming.

A spider spinning its web is a sign of fine days. If in the morning a day's excursion may be taken without fear of summer costumes becoming spoiled by the rain and if in the evening there is at least the whole of the night and the following morning will be fine.

If it is raining and the owl screeches a change for the better in the weather will shortly ensue, but should the peacock screech bad weather is to come or continue.

Snails are also valuable weather prophets. As long as they are to be seen juggling along in the orthodox manner fine weather may be confidently looked forward to. If there is rain in the atmosphere the snails may be seen to seek shelter up the stems of trees and shrubs, under leaves and, in fact, anywhere where they can be safely out of the wet. Only when all immediate danger of a recurrence of rain is over will they emerge again.

GROWING THE AZALEA.

Varieties of This Beautiful Plant Found in Many Countries.

The hardy azaleas, cultivated in English gardens and now receiving the attention of cultivators both in Europe and this country, originated from the Mediterranean Azalea pontica, the North American and the Chinese and Japanese azaleas. These have been much intercrossed, and the respective types are now connected by so many intermediate forms that it is not easy to classify them under their respective species.

They were first popularly known as American azaleas and subsequently, after they had received much attention in Belgium, became known as Ghent azaleas. Now they are being cultivated so largely in Japan that they are frequently termed Japanese azaleas. A collective term for them is hardy hybrid azaleas. Turkey has a beautiful native azalea, which is in the form of a deciduous shrub with brilliant yellow flowers. You often read of this beautiful flower in descriptions of Turkey.

Our native azalea, with its wealth of bloom, varying in tint from white to bluish pink, rose, red and scarlet, is suggestive both in shape and color and also in fragrance of the honeysuckle, under which name, with the prefix wild, it is commonly known.

While the wild azaleas are not as strikingly brilliant as the ones the florists offer us, they possess a fragrance and delicacy that we find entirely lacking in the cultivated ones.

As the white honeysuckle another American species (Azalea viscosa) is familiarly known in its native home, where it is chiefly found in swamps near the coast in the northern and eastern states. This materially differs from the other varieties of native azaleas in that it produces its flowers after the leaves have fully expanded, and, though the plant is beautiful, it does not present such a mass of coloring as the other varieties. The shades have not so wide a range, being confined to white or yellow with a rose tint, but the flowers are borne in large tufts and are very fragrant.

Some of the Japanese azaleas have been cultivated to a great extent, and some of these varieties at the present time excel all others in size of the individual flowers; but, as is the case with all the cultivated varieties, they are entirely lacking in fragrance. However, they are extremely handsome and are imported by the many thousands for the Easter season.

When one purchases an azalea from the florist it is usually in the height of its beauty, being a mass of bloom. Now, the thing desired is to keep it in this condition as long as possible. In order to do this keep the plant in as cool a place as possible and well watered.

A Thought For Today.

So few of us are content with the little pleasures. If we were there would be much more happiness in the world and far less discontent. But we scorn the little things which might interest and amuse us and fret because we can't have the big ones.

Little pleasures are scarcely worth telling our friends about. Perhaps that is why we think so little of them.

A New Invention.

There is a new invention in the house furnishing department which catches the top edges of the two grape fruit sheets, runs the said sheets are to be used for receptacles of salad or jelly. A knife fixed in the bottom of a shallow wooden trough does the work as the fruit rolls over it. The price is 40 cents.

A MEDAL FROM CONGRESS.

Awarded to Miss Mary McCann, the Girl Heroine of the Slocum Disaster.

Five years ago in June a little, pale faced, fourteen-year-old girl was sitting weakly in a big chair on the veranda of a cottage on North Brother Island, near New York city.

She was just recovering from an attack of scarlet fever. Her parents in New York had sent her over to the island to have the sea breeze help her recover her strength.

The child sat looking out over the blue waters and watching a big excursion boat. There were children on board, hundreds of them. She could see their white dresses, bright and pretty in the sunlight. They waved their white handkerchiefs toward the shore. The girl on the shore could make out even the name of the boat—General Slocum.

But even as she was spelling out the name a fearful thing happened. Smoke and fire sprang up from the bow and stern of the boat at once, it seemed—great rolling clouds of smoke, black and dense. The children began to hear the cries of the children.

The steamboat turned toward shore, grated on the sand, stopped. The cries were much louder now. People began to gather at the bank. A few had the coolness to get boats and go to the rescue. More just run foolishly up and down the beach, crying and wringing their hands.

The little invalid on the veranda—no, she wasn't on the veranda. Where had she gone? Why, there she was halfway down the beach, running, her blankets and pillows forgotten, her little white face flushed now from the exertion.

The doctor's orders were that the child should remain absolutely quiet. He was sure they would be obeyed, for she was too weak to do anything else, he thought.

And here she was running furiously to the water's edge. Now she was in the water—wading, running, paddling toward the boat which lay burning, helpless and stranded on the sand.

One of the many children who had leaped or been pushed from the deck of the boat drifted by close to the little invalid girl. The next minute she was being dragged ashore, and the invalid was back braving the waters again, rescuing another child.

Nine times the little sick girl plunged into the water on her rescue mission. Each time she risked her own life among those twisting, hurrying currents and from the strangling grips of the half drowned children she was trying to save.

But she succeeded, and in nine homes in Greater New York that night fathers and mothers with choking voices prayed for the unknown little sick girl who had saved their own darling from death.

The next day the whole city was ringing with the story, and lessons were told and sung and preached about the name of Mary McCann.

For this was the name of the brave little sick girl who had forgotten her own troubles and weakness in the face of others' peril—just plain, unpretending Mary McCann.

This was five years ago, and Mary McCann is a grownup girl now. She is a student at the Florence Crittenton training school at Washington.

The United States house of representatives has just discovered that Mary McCann is a heroine. It has voted her a silver medal for bravery, and Speaker Cannon presented it himself to her recently, and his voice trembled as he did it. Thinking of her bravery, he bent over and kissed the girl and uttered a little blessing on her.

BATHING HINTS.

Advice to Those Who Slight Important Details.

Have you ever used bath bags? No? Well, they are cheap, quickly made, and, once tried, you will never be without them. To make them, cut three of muslin 12 by 15 inches and run these up to form bags. Fill each one with the following mixture: A gill of bran, a gill of oatmeal, a gill of cornmeal, a gill of pulverized corn, a tablespoonful of ground cloves, the same of powdered borax and a gill of shaved toilet soap. The bag should not be stuffed full, but the contents should be loose. Allow the bag to soak in the bath water a few minutes, so its fragrance will be imparted. One of these little bags will last two months and must be hung up to dry each time after using. Should you enjoy a stronger perfume it is obtained by adding half an ounce of lavender flowers to the bag or by pouring a little lavender or violet water in the tub or bath in connection with this. The skin feels delightful if gone over with a bath brush. It seems to start the circulation as nothing else will. Then sponge off with the bath bag. Twice a week is sufficiently often for this perfumed bath, and upon retiring is decidedly the best time. Don't take very hot baths, and don't be foolish enough to take a "cold dip" in the mornings unless ordered by the family physician. Let the water be as near the temperature of the body as possible. Don't use the old fashioned sponge for bathing. It is decidedly obnoxious and insubstantial. Don't bathe directly after eating—not for half an hour at least. Don't ever take a bath in a cold room. Don't take a cold bath when tired, but a warm one will rest and refresh you greatly.

Don't wash the face too frequently when traveling. Cold cream removes dirt better than hard water, and don't forget the alcohol bottle; also cheese-cloth wash cloths, which can be used and then thrown away.

Don't attempt to remove dirt and dust from the face with cold water; and don't wash the face and hands with hard water if you can get soft. A small quantity of powdered borax makes the hardest water soft and agreeable. Don't wash the face with cold water when warm from exertion or when overheated. Don't remain long in a bath, but don't neglect a daily one of some sort. Don't dress immediately after it, and, above all, don't neglect the "sun-bath" as well as the one of fresh air.

Don't think you are getting rid of wrinkles by filling them with powder, but before retiring bathe the face with hot water so hot it has to be sopped then with very cold water, and pat it dry with a towel. Then take a cold water wash, which can be used and then thrown away.

Use of Charcoal. A small dish of charcoal kept in the meat larder will keep the articles sweet and wholesome. Charcoal is a great disinfectant. A dish of charcoal kept in the icebox will also keep it smelling sweet and free from odors.

Potatoes a la Princesse. To one pint of mashed potatoes add one tablespoonful melted butter and one egg well beaten. Cut the potatoes into strips, two inches long, one inch wide and half an inch thick. Dip the strips first into the melted butter, then into the egg and lay them with a knife on lightly buttered tin pans. Cook in hot oven for ten minutes and serve.

LADY ARTHUR GROSVENOR.

A Titled Englishwoman Who Plays Gypsy During the Summer Months.

In these days of rapid travel by motor and electric traction there is something refreshingly novel about the adventures of a titled Englishwoman—Lady Arthur Grosvenor's method of holiday making by caravan. The illustration shows this lady on one of her expeditions, accompanied by a friend and her favorite dogs. While out on these journeys Lady Arthur Grosvenor does all her own cooking over a regular campfire. She makes it a rule to rise at 5 every morning. Breakfast is ready "in the open" by 6 and a hour later the wagon is on the move for the day's journey, covering usually about fifteen miles. Now and then some of Lady Arthur Grosvenor's society friends accompany her for a day or strenuous for them. Lord Arthur Grosvenor frequently goes along with his wife on these strange tours, but he is not so fond of the life as Lady Arthur Grosvenor herself. In her own social circle she has become known by the nickname of Sarah Lee.

Lady Arthur Grosvenor's camping out life has given rise to a fad among the upper ten in England. A month or two out of the year many of them attempt to practice the "simple life" by camping out on the lawns of their country mansions, waiting barefooted on the grass and hunting themselves to farinaceous diet. There are not many, however, who have the hardihood to go in for the "real thing" to the extent indulged in by Lady Arthur Grosvenor.

These gypsy adventures have made her the talk of England for some little time, and quite a number of her society friends cut her because of her strange whim. She goes all over England, however, and seldom takes the trouble to explain her identity. On one or two occasions she found it necessary to extricate herself from an embarrassing position by letting it be known that she was a titled lady simply enjoying an outing. As a rule English farmers are not at all partial to the whims of the tramp persuasion, as Lady Grosvenor often found to her great inconvenience. Gypsy wagons are not permitted to camp by the roadside, nor can they occupy a field or a meadow without the consent of the landlord. Lady Arthur Grosvenor on several occasions found great difficulty in obtaining the necessary permission and was often moved on by the police from place to place. Now and again, when arriving late at night at some village, her van has been surrounded and somewhat unceremoniously moved on before her ladyship could explain her identity.

Gypsies have an inviolable reputation for pilfering and wherever they go are looked upon with great suspicion. However, despite all the drawbacks, Lady Arthur Grosvenor has stuck to gypsying for several months out of each year and is said to have become quite proficient in the art of buying and selling. She often carries a stock of household necessities, such as brooms, mats and wickerware, and enjoys the experience of going into the farmers' cottages and disposing of her goods.

Warns Against Votes For Women.

A scientific warning against all this suffrage business has been spoken by Dr. Max G. Schiapp, professor in the Cornell University Medical school. The professor addressed the women members of a New York club and made clear his opinion that women can't vote and maintain the birth rate. His views seem sufficient to give every suffragette sober reflection. "Women are becoming more and more active," he says. "They seem about to assume the suffrage. But the sex already is overburdened. The curves on statistical tables show a tremendous decrease in the birth rate since 1870. Other curves show an increase in insanity and nervous diseases. The lesson is that life processes have been logical condition exists. Statisticians contend that the mother love, the love of offspring, is diminishing with the greater functional activity. Woman is spending too much energy by adding to her functional burdens, robbing herself of her formative powers. Whatever the aggressive leaders in the fight for equal rights may say about it, there can be no doubt Dr. Schiapp has presented a new aspect of this growing suffragette problem.

For a Summer Veranda.

The girl who wishes to render the verandas of the summer cottage attractive should take time by the forelock and make up an assortment of pillow covers. One of the most serviceable tops is of a new material which closely resembles leather and comes in red, blue, green and leather shades made up plainly and fringed with imitation leather fringe.

Burlap covers are embroidered with flower, foliage and bird designs or with fringe made by fraying the edges of the face and back of the pillow top.

Lingerie pillows are of muslin all over embroidery, of batiste banded and frilled with embroidery and of dotted and sprayed swiss. Any of the flowered lawns are pretty if finished with wide ruffles, and so are the

Scotch gingham striped in two tones of one color. Some of them have a broken tartan plaid border that makes an effective ruffle. Scotch madras in two tone or solid colors furnishes a serviceable and smart looking pillow top, and there are most attractive plain French linens in such shades as wistaria, catanba, champagne, vanilla brown and old rose.

Herb serim is an excellent material for a porch pillow cover and is charming when decorated with Dalmatian embroidery in oriental color combinations with embroidery silk. Cream colored serim is used without a pattern, as is also the work.

For the Doeblinger work, done on colored mousses cloth, the eight fold Germantown yarn is used to develop art nouveau or oriental patterns.

For a Summer Veranda.

The girl who wishes to render the verandas of the summer cottage attractive should take time by the forelock and make up an assortment of pillow covers. One of the most serviceable tops is of a new material which closely resembles leather and comes in red, blue, green and leather shades made up plainly and fringed with imitation leather fringe.

Burlap covers are embroidered with flower, foliage and bird designs or with fringe made by fraying the edges of the face and back of the pillow top.

Lingerie pillows are of muslin all over embroidery, of batiste banded and frilled with embroidery and of dotted and sprayed swiss. Any of the flowered lawns are pretty if finished with wide ruffles, and so are the

Scotch gingham striped in two tones of one color. Some of them have a broken tartan plaid border that makes an effective ruffle. Scotch madras in two tone or solid colors furnishes a serviceable and smart looking pillow top, and there are most attractive plain French linens in such shades as wistaria, catanba, champagne, vanilla brown and old rose.

Herb serim is an excellent material for a porch pillow cover and is charming when decorated with Dalmatian embroidery in oriental color combinations with embroidery silk. Cream colored serim is used without a pattern, as is also the work.

For the Doeblinger work, done on colored moussé cloth, the eight fold Germantown yarn is used to develop art nouveau or oriental patterns.
